RE: ALPHONSE CAPONE

Contempt of Court, Perjury.

With reference to the above entitled case, which went to trial at 10 A.M. on February 25th, 1931, you are advised that on this date testimony was completed, and arguments closed by both the prosecution and defense, after which Federal Judge James R. Wilkerson sentenced subject Capone to serve a term of six months in the Cook County, Illinois jail, final order of sentence to be entered by the Court under date of March 2nd, 1931, at 10 A.M. Judge Wilkerson intimated that on March 2nd, 1931, he would allow subject Capone thirty days in which to file an appeal. Said subject was released under his present bond of $5000.00.

For your additional information in connection with this matter I am transmitting herewith copies of the official transcript of Judge Wilkerson's announcement of finding in the Alphonse Capone case, dated February 27th, 1931, as made by the Court Reporter.

For your further information I desire to advise that subject Capone was arrested at the noon recess when he was leaving the Federal Court under date of February 25th, 1931, by City Detectives of the Chicago Police Department, in connection with the Vagrancy charge pending against him at Chicago. He was arraigned before Municipal Judge Thomas Green, who released subject Capone on a $10,000.00 bond.

Shortly after Federal Judge Wilkerson announced the verdict in the Capone case, Special Agent T. P. Mullen talked with United States Attorney George E. Q. Johnson, who stated that he

UNITED STATES      }
vs.                  } Before Wilkerson, J.
CAPONE              }

Friday, February 27, 1931

10 o'clock A. M.

O P I N I O N.

THE COURT: This respondent was served on the 27th of February, 1929, with a subpoena from this Court requiring him to appear before the grand jury on the 12th day of March, 1929, at 10 o'clock A. M.

On the 11th of March he entered his appearance in this court, submitted himself to the jurisdiction of the court, and made an application to the court to postpone his appearance in response to the subpoena until the April Term of the court, or until such other time as his appearance might be directed by the order of the court.

In connection with the petition and made a part of the petition by express reference there was submitted to the court an affidavit executed in Florida and sent by the respondent to Chicago. The affidavit was that of a doctor named Phillips.

The affidavit stated that he was acquainted with the respondent, that he had been attending him ever since the 13th of January; that the respondent was then under his professional treatment. That since January 13, 1929, the respondent had been suffering from bronchopneumonia pleurisy with effusions of fluid into the chest cavity, and for six weeks was confined to his bed at his home on said Palm Island, and had been out of his bed only for ten days last past; that he had not fully recovered from the disease and that in the professional opinion of affiant his physical condition was such that it would be dangerous for him to leave the mild climate of Southern Florida and go to Chicago, and that to do so would imperil the safety of the respondent; that there would be a very grave risk of relapse which might result in his death from the recurrence of pneumonia; that the doctor advised against requiring the respondent to go from Florida to Chicago, and that it would be inconsistent with the personal safety of the respondent to go to Chicago; that the opinion expressed by him was concurred in by three professional consultants of the City of Miami, Dr. Goudy, Dr. Maxwell, and Dr. Pierson, all of whom may be reached by addressing them at 120 Shoreland Arcade in the City of Miami.

Now as to this affidavit the fact is that it was executed in the office of a lawyer; that it was taken from the lawyer's office and sworn to before the United States Commissioner and turned over to the respondent. It appeared first in court accompanied by a letter which concededly was written by the respondent and in which there was a reference to his desire to obtain a stay of time for his appearance before the Grand Jury. The doctor said he did not pay very close attention to the affidavit when it was dictated by the lawyer. There is no contention, however, by the respondent here that he did not understand the allegations of the affidavit. He has not undertaken to assert any lack of familiarity with the statements in the affidavit. On the contrary, he adopted it and sent it to Chicago to the attorneys to be used for the purpose indicated.

Aside from the opinion of the doctor as to what was the matter with the respondent, there were certain averments of facts in the affidavit which could not have not escaped the attention of any one who had given even a slight consideration to the language of the affidavit.

There is the positive statement of fact that the respondent had been confined to his bed at his home for a period of six weeks after the 13th of January, and there is the positive and direct statement that he had been out of bed only for ten days last past.

Now the testimony offered by the respondent consisted of the evidence of Drs. Phillips and Omens and of the two nurses.

Dr. Phillips' testimony, of course, must be considered in the light of the telegram which he sent to Dr. Omens in which he characterized the sickness of the respondent as not serious in its character. He has given an explanation for that, but without saying anything further concerning the testimony of Dr. Phillips, I think clearly that we must decide the question of fact as to the respondent's illness in January upon the testimony of Dr. Omens and the two nurses.

Dr. Omens reached Miami sometime between the 15th and the 20th of January and found him, he says, seriously ill from the disease mentioned. He remained there a few days, and when he left, shortly after the 20th of January, so far as temperature and pulse are concerned, the condition of the patient was about normal.

One of the nurses went to the home on the 6th of January and remained a little less than three weeks. The night nurse who was called in by Dr. Phillips went there on the 13th or about the 13th and remained seven or eight days - I think she said seven to ten days. At any rate, the nurses had gone by the last week in January, and the evidence establishes beyond all possibility of doubt in this case that during the month of February the respondent was not confined to his bed.

The evidence shows during that period frequent attendance at the race tracks; it shows a trip in an airplane; it shows a boat trip, and taking all of the evidence, it is perfectly clear that at least after the 2nd of February it could not be truthfully stated that the respondent was confined to his bed, and that the statement on the date when the affidavit was made, namely, the 5th of March, 1929, the respondent had been out of bed for only ten days last past was glaringly false.

Now the result of the whole thing was that there was a short extension of time within which the respondent was to appear before the Grand Jury.

But I think we miss the point in this case when we lay stress upon what happened when counsel for the defendant and Mr. Anderson appeared before this branch of the Court, or when we lay stress upon the inconvenience, if any, to which the United States was subjected by the failure of the respondent to come here on the 12th, or if we lay stress upon the statement of the respondent in his application for a continuance that he was willing to come here whenever the Court directed him to come, or the statement which it is said was in the letter that he did not wish to be in contempt of court, - I say we miss the point in this case when we lay stress upon that.

The point in this case as I see it, is this: There has been a system established for the administration of justice. The Court is a part of that machinery which is erected for the administration of justice.

Now the Court deals with litigants, with witnesses, with jurors in only one way, and that is through the process of Court, and when the process of Court issues it is to be respected, it is to be obeyed, it is not to be trifled with, it is not to be flaunted; and with respect to the process of the Court the duty rests upon litigants and upon witnesses and upon jurors to deal honestly and fairly and frankly with the Court; and when an attempt is made to interfere with the execution of the process of the Court, when an appeal is made to the Court to relieve a party from obedience to the process of the Court, the Court is entitled to the fullest, fairest and most complete disclosure of all the facts. In no other way may the Courts operate.

Now here we have an application addressed to this Court with respect to the execution of the process of the Court in which it is represented to the Court that the respondent has just been out of bed for ten days, when it must have been a matter of general knowledge in the community in which he was then staying that he was not sick in bed at all.

Now the point in this case is the effect of conduct of that kind upon the administration of justice, and the situation is not changed by the action which the Court took with reference to this document. The situation would be the same if the Court had acted in granting the continuance for some reason entirely different from the one stated in the affidavit.

The point to the case is that instead of obeying the process of the Court, the respondent, to be relieved from obedience to the process of the Court, sent this affidavit which contained these false statements.

Upon the record as it stands here there is nothing for the Court to do except to adjudge the respondent guilty of contempt of Court as charged in the information, and as punishment for the contempt the respondent will be committed to the County Jail of Cook County for the period of six months. The United States Attorney may prepare the order.

MR. EPSTEIN: If your Honor please, I wish to enter a motion in arrest of judgment.

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. EPSTEIN: And in support of my motion for arrest of judgment I wish to assign the argument that there is no proof in this case that the defendant had any knowledge of the false representations that were made, as I made before in my argument, and I wish to urge in support of the motion in arrest of judgment that there has never been any service personally of the rule to show cause in this case; and I might say all the other points that were heretofore argued and presented and contained in the motions heretofore made.

THE COURT: The motion will be overruled.

MR. EPSTEIN: May I have an exception to the overruling of the motion in arrest?

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. EPSTEIN: Now if your Honor please, will your Honor make any findings of fact in connection with the --

THE COURT: Well I have directed the United States Attorney to prepare an order.

MR. EPSTEIN: Your Honor, the verdict was that --

THE COURT: He will put in this order the facts found. I have found now that the charge of the information --

MR. EPSTEIN: That he was guilty of the charges contained in the information.

THE COURT: Oh, that may be embodied in the formal offer which the United States Attorney submits.

MR. EPSTEIN: Will your Honor -- until the presentation of that order I suppose there is no real final order in the case.

THE COURT: What is the bond of the respondent?

MR. EPSTEIN: $5,000, and he has voluntarily appeared, as your Honor knows.

THE COURT: I think that is a sufficient bond.

MR. EPSTEIN: As the matter stands on the --

THE COURT: You may present the formal order for entry next Monday morning at 10.00 o'clock.

MR. EPSTEIN: At that time will your Honor allow us an order --

THE COURT: There will be no order this morning. I have announced my decision in the case and formal order will be presented here Monday morning at 10.00 o'clock by the United States Attorney for entry. In the meantime the respondent may be at liberty on the bond which he has already given in this case, if that is satisfactory to the respondent.

MR. EPSTEIN: And at that time, if your Honor please, or shall we make the motion now, praying an appeal? Will your Honor allow an appeal?

THE COURT: I will allow an appeal. You can present your petition when you have it ready, petition and assignment of errors and bond on the appeal will be the same as the bond here, $5,000.

MR. EPSTEIN: And supersedeas?

THE COURT: I think that bond is sufficient on appeal.

MR. CROSSTON: Yes.

THE COURT: Yes, supersedeas, bond $5,000.

MR. EPSTEIN: Will your Honor allow supersedeas?

THE COURT: On $5,000 bond.

MR. EPSTEIN: On $5,000 bail.

THE COURT: I may, however, limit the operation of the supersedeas. I think you should prepare on this hearing a bill of exceptions within twenty days. I think that would be ample time for you to do that, so that you can get the record up and get it docketed before the Court of Appeals.
I should like to limit the time of operation of the supersedeas so that the case may be considered before the Court adjourns in July. I do not think that is any hardship upon counsel.

MR. EPSTEIN: Well, it will be a hardship —

THE COURT: Sometimes in matters of this kind a great deal of the force of the Court's acts, if they are correct, is lost by delay, and I think it is important that the questions which are involved should be finally disposed of at as early a date as possible. I am disposed to do everything to facilitate your getting your appeal and your bill of exceptions.

15

MR. EPSTEIN: Well, as to that I don't know.
For twenty days right now to me happens to be —

THE COURT: Thirty days.

MR. EPSTEIN: -- a time when I am going to be very busily engaged, but I have able assistants and counsel and colleagues and cogitators with me.

THE COURT: Did you both have reporters in this case?

MR. WAUGH: Yes, your Honor.

THE COURT: The record in this case is short and somebody can take it and abstract it and make a statement of the evidence in a day, I should think.

MR. WAUGH: Of course it has to be written up first.
We have not had it written up yet.

MR. EPSTEIN: We have not had it written up as we went along.

THE COURT: Those questions may be disposed of on Monday.

MR. WAUGH: All right

(Whereupon an adjournment was taken to Monday, March 2, 1931, at 10.00

o'clock A. M.)

• CAPONE TO JAIL.

Al Capone is sentenced to six months in jail by Federal Judge Wilkerson for contempt of court. He had taken a casual but characteristic attitude toward judicial process. He did not want to obey a summons, being in Florida. He was well advised legally that he could not ignore it and he was advised that it could be fixed by a false affidavit. Capone's experience and his ideas of government gave him justification for believing that it could be fixed, but he was dealing with the wrong court.

He had learned from his operations in Chicago that he was a part of government under reciprocat- ing arrangements in which for value received he conducted certain enterprises requiring political protection and occasional murder. His experience in Philadelphia, where he went to jail for a year for carrying a gun, would not destroy his confidence in the general dependability of the system. That was a jam in which he was careless in unorganized territory. It was an exceptional event.

The sentence which has been imposed is not relevant to any of the major facts of his career, but it is to the general plan of government in which he has participated. The chief犯 of the trial of Capone is to be sentenced to the same time as it has of life imprisonment in the federal penitentiary. Frank C. Murphy, who has three years in prison, from April to eighteen months. Drug- gan and Little are to be sentenced on pleas of guilty, and of the three Guillas, a protected family of gangsters, and of the three, as one has been sentenced to life prison, one is indicted and one is to be indicted. Furthermore, under the direction of Secretary of Labor Davis, the immigration officials are cracking out the deportables. Mops' Vito of the Capone gang will thus leave the country.

It is not difficult, and, to the gangsters and politicians associated with them, startling developments of the last six months. If the law approach has not been a direct attack upon the gravest enemy of the public, they are still doing. In these days it is nevertheless the first real blow which has been dealt in their protection.

Capone Facing
Income-Tax Charge
Speeds White's Trial
Wells Along

U. S. Plans Gang Chief's Income-Tax Prosecution; Speed Volpe Exile.

WHITE TRIAL MONDAY

With "Scarface Al" Capone, boss bootlegger and gambling racketeer, under sentence of six months for contempt of court, Chicago's cleanup drive whirled along today with the authorities pressing the fight on several new fronts.

White Capone was at Roerig today to report to U. S. Commissioner of Internal Revenue George E. Q. Johnson and his aids busied themselves completing evidence on which an indictment will be sought against the gang chief for income-tax fraud similar to those which have already brought prison sentences to some of his principal cohorts.

Immigration authorities in Chicago meanwhile were making preparations to assist in the deportation of Tony ("Mickey") Volpe, long a reputed member of the so-called murder division of the Capone syndicate.

125 Other Aliens Deported.
Six coaches, barred and carrying armed guard, will take 125 undesirable aliens out of Chicago tonight from the LaSalle street station. Although Volpe will not be among the men being deported, the train will have on it three brothelkeepers—Nick Bernacini and Anton Marcelli of Chicago and Angel Krikos of Gary and three foxes recently released from Joliet—Christie Louis, a burglar; Emil Wyll, a burglar, and Frank Cottrell. The men adjudged alien will also be taken to New York for the voyage to their home country.

A special train, including cars for sixty aliens from the west coast, will carry the undesirables east.

White Plea Is Denied.

Judge Joseph Sabath in the Criminal Court overruled the motion to quash the indictment against William J. ("Three Fingered Jack") White, also listed as a public enemy, ordered him to trial Monday morning for the killing of a policeman several years ago.

In refusing the plea of White's attorneys Judge Sabath also announced that the trial of Leo V. Brothers, St. Louis hoodlum indicted for the murder of Alfred Lingle, which had been set for March 3, would follow immediately upon the conclusion of White's case.

The Popes Are Questioned.

That the government officials were already pressing their efforts to land Capone in a prison cell for income-tax law violations became known today through the reported appearance in the federal building of Willie and Dennis Pope, who at various times are reported to have been prominent in the operation of some of the Capone-controlled gambling joints.

They were reported to have been questioned by Assistant District Attorney Dwight H. Green and from other sources it was learned that subpoenas are to be issued for others who, it is hoped, may be compelled to give information before the federal grand jury regarding the profits Capone is said to have taken from some of these enterprises.

Mr. Johnson's assistants, it was said, plan to follow the same procedure in their efforts to obtain an indictment against Capone as used in the prosecution of Ralph Capone, his brother; Jack Guzik and Frank ("The Enforcer") Nitti, who is already serving an eighteen-month sentence in Leavenworth penitentiary for income-tax fraud.

Vagrancy Trial Wednesday.

Capone also faces trial next Wednesday before Judge Frank M. Padden in the Felony court on a charge of vagrancy as public enemy No. 1. He is scheduled to appear before Judge Wilkerson Monday morning, when the formal order on the six months' sentence meted out to him yesterday is to be entered. At that time formalities connected with the filing of his appeal will be completed.

ALL SORTS OF Al Capone stories are in circulation in and around Lewisburg. It all had its origin in reports contained in newspapers alleging the Great Lakes Construction Company to be owned in the majority by Capone and to be a part of some racket system. The construction company repudiated this imputation, and the Union Press made an investigation with the result and conclusion that the Great Lakes Company is in no way related to Al Capone. While this ought to end further comment it seems to have accented the libel with more new stories printed each day than there are fleas on a dog's back.

THE SPIRIT OF enterprise is running high with our local merchants and business men who have put on for Friday and Saturday big holiday purchasing carnivals when great bargains may be had and money saved.

By Special Staff Writer, and Exclusively for THE SATURDAY NEWS:

That the underworld of Chicago has branched out from its operations along the shores of Lake Michigan, is attested by several startling developments in this section during the past two weeks. The first intimation of gangdom's entrance into Union county came last week when Ben Comiskey, of Shamokin, was arrested at Sunbury for trespassing on Reading Railroad property. Taken before Mayor Heckart of Sunbury, the Shamokinite stated that he had been sent to these parts by Al "Scarface" Capone, supreme pontiff of the Chicago underworld, to stop work on the new penitentiary.

Although police officials discounted his story, attributing his remarks to fabulous dreams caused by "canna heat", the future developments have cast a different aspect on the whole affair.

Stephens then advised the investigator that he had been to the state of Illinois to see his mother. In going further he stated that what appeared to be the tracks of a dog which walked out to the front paws of a Great Dane.

Upon examination the investigator of the shoe marks with his hands it was discovered that they tallied exactly with those of Ramon "The Roman" Romanielli, a well known Columbia gangster. It is stated that Stephens owns a Great Dane.

Going over his records it was found that Romanielli is a brother-in-law of James "Pink Eye" Kelly who was for many years as "The Terror of Trenton." Kelly is known to have been closely associated with Capone before he rose to be King of the Underworld. Kelly also was a close friend of James "Big Jim" Colosimo, whose body guard Capone was until "Big Jim" was assassinated on May 12, 1920.

The Chain Tightens

For this "is it" enough to convince the investigator that the footprints near the site of the new penitentiary had anything to do with the Chicago underworld. He again returned to the penitentiary site, where he easily traced the tracks across the fields to a point near Taylorville. They ended at the side of the road where an automobile had been parked. From the condition of the ground where the car was parked it appeared that there had been a flat tire. The tire mark leading up to the place of parking and those leading away gave no indication that a tire was flat. Consequently, it was deducted that the tire went flat while the car was parked there. But the shoe tracks said to be those of Romanielli were not flat and returned directly to the car. Furthermore, there was someone else in the car who fixed the tire.

The investigator found a tire wrench almost covered with mud. It was unlike most tire wrenches in that it was made by a firm in Chicago who manufactures such wrenches only on a small scale. They are not supplied with any automobile equipment, and can be purchased at only a few of the accessory stores in Chicago.

This was another clue. Still another was the two initials, "J. J.", which had been cut into the metal of the wrench.

Traces Wrench to Owner

Few gamblers are so reckless as to show their vanity by carving their initials on property that might be lost, but the investigator remembered that a Chicago gangster by the name of Joe "Jo Jo" Jackson once before cut the hands of the law because of an uninvited pocket knife which he had left in a distillery. Jackson is known to be a trusted lieutenant of Capone.

There seems to be little doubt that Chicago bandits has been at the site of the penitentiary. Just why they should desire to hold up construction is not known, unless the underworld feels that prosecutions will be more frequent when the government has more room to take care of federal law-breakers.

As yet the representatives of the Chicago underworld have done nothing here to warrant turning the case over to the police. But the pressure is on them to get at work.

DETAILS:
On February 25, 1931 the trial of subject Capone was commenced before Federal Judge Jas. H. Wilkerson on a contempt of court charge. On February 27, 1931 Subject Capone was found guilty by Federal Judge Wilkerson and he stated that on March 2, 1931 he would formally enter a sentence of six months which was on this date passed upon Subject Capone. This sentence to be served in the Cook County Jail. On March 2, 1931 Powers,ough and Postelaw attorneys for Subject Capone were granted a motion to file a bill of exception to the decision of Judge Wilkerson. This bill was filed within thirty days. Subject Capone then made $5,000 supersedeas and so far as his appeal Federal Judge Wilkerson then stipulated that if the court of appeals is not disposed of by June 1, 1931, the date set by the judge for the supersedeas to expire, Subject Capone must then go to the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

F RANCES McGAAN, the nurse who lived for four months in the Drinker respirator at St. Luke's hospital and survived other night.

And since she had the dream she has been training amazingly. She ate food and wash herself now, where before her hands and arms were helplessly paralyzed.

Propped up in bed in a nest of hot pillows, hollering like a child with her dark hair in two braids tied with gay pink ribbons, Frances described it today.

"I dreamed that I was all well and the doctors told me I could leave the hospital. I was so delighted — and then so disappointed the next morning when I awoke and found it was only a dream.

"Since then I've been feeling wonderful, though. My appetite has picked up and I am able to use my hands and arms much more than before. At this rate, perhaps my dream will come true in a little while. I weigh 91 pounds now."

Breathing Still Rapid

The added weight has greatly improved Miss McGaan's appearance. She weighed only 75 pounds when she left the respirator in December. Her face has rounded out, her hands and cheeks are taking on the tint of health and her eyes are brighter. Her breathing is still rapid and difficult, though it has improved since the time she left the machine. A special metal tank has been constructed in which Miss McGaan bathes and taken exercise to strengthen her body. Her limbs are more buoyant in water, and with a back rest and her nurses to support her, she is able to sit up.

Frances had a cold in the country town. Last Saturday night the girl, known only as Nora, saw other girls dancing with others. They were pretty girls and had good looks and money. Nora had nothing. She layed on the rug in her room at 1130 W. Jackson Blvd.

When the landlady, Mrs. Ruth Hallen, smelled gas, she called the police bureau and the girl was rushed to the county hospital, where she died. Her purse contained only a lipstick. There were no letters or papers. Last Wednesday when Nora rented the room and paid $4 for a week's rent she told Mrs. Hallen only her first name.

"She had not a friend in the world, so far as I know," Mrs. Hallen told the DAILY TIMES. "No one came to see her. She would not talk to me, and she kept to herself. I suppose there had been tragedy in her life."

Mrs. Hallen said the girl had no clothing or bedding other than the black cloth coat and hat to match, black skirt, blue sweater, black shoes and flesh-colored hose which she wore.

She had black hair and brown eyes and was about five feet four inches and weighed

Companionate Wife to Gilbert, No Sox Danner, Says Ina Claire

GIRLS' STORY JAILS 2 YOUTHS

JUST PASSING THROUGH

Ina Claire, who has forsaken the stage for the screen, is going to live with John Gilbert or mend his soul even though he is her husband.

Between mouthfuls of breakfast at the La Salle station, where she arrived today from New York on the Century, she gave her version of how two movie stars can be happy deep in marriage.

Complaints of two young girls who had been forced to look prudish, beaten, and then attacked, today held two youths in the Evanston lockup.

The young man, Charles Simpson, 18, 613 Grove st., Evanston, faces charges of assault and criminal attack.

They were arrested after Miss Anderson, 17, 1108 Laramie bldg., clerk in a drug store at Lawrence and Kedzie ave., told police Thompson "made a date" to take her home and that he and Simpson drove her instead to a Niles Center prairie.

"Simpson struck me on the head and both of them attacked me," she told police.

An examination at Rogers Park hospital showed she had been attacked. When her complaint was made the Evanston police were already investigating the charges of Miss Ruth Blau, 17, 120 Chicago ave. Miss Blau said the youths had driven her to Church st. and High Ridge rd. Niles Center. There they had beaten and attacked her, according to her story.

WAKES FROM COMA

Ina Claire, who has forsaken the stage for the screen, is going to live with John Gilbert or mend his soul even though he is her husband.

Between mouthfuls of breakfast at the La Salle station, where she arrived today from New York on the Century, she gave her version of how two movie stars can be happy deep in marriage.

"Two nervous, temperamental people like John and I simply can't live together in the same house," said she, plunging into a doughnut. "That's why we have separate homes and see each other occasionally when we're not working don't get in the way. Then we're both in the right frame of mind and I have my makeup in place. It's the ideal way."

Criticizes Her Work

"Of course, we love each other, but I'd rather be his companionate wife or mistress, if you prefer, than his housewife."

"When we were first married," she confided, "we had a lot on our minds. A wife has to watch her step, and kindness knows I'm not the snake person in the world to get along with. In fact, I'm the most imperfect wife I know!"

"John and I both believe that individuality should be respected, and a woman needs privacy nearly as much as she needs love."

"Of Course, We're In Love"

The blonde star even criticized her self as a screen actress.

"I haven't satisfied myself with my

Mr. Doherty described the war, the coming of prohibition in comes. He described Big Jim Colosimo, vice at the time, and told of his schemes with Dale Winder.

He said a friend for getting booze and millions of dollars on it. But he was opposed in as Colosimo's dream.

He added: "I would not be surprised to learn that he did. I always believed that Johnny Torrio was the man who forced Big Jim out of his golden seat."

It was a man Colosimo trusted who killed him. And Colosimo turned up man he be trusted Torrio.

Colosimo visited Dale Wheeler in April, and they went honey-bounding for a few weeks—all the time he could spare from his business. He was murdered a few days after he returned.

He added: "I thought at very first bolt-on-plon loaf and urged others to follow stranger's example until their demand for a one loaf cost 10 cents.

"If one loaf in our bread, besides, and the bakers don't, it isn't so much trouble and it's the most effective way to make our complaint succeed. If we all bake our own bread the bakers will have to cut their price."

Although the barn loaf with its golden brown crust was the heavier argument against the bakers, Mrs. Ellensberg firmly set six units in determining the bread that mother and daughter had the day.

After the bakers there has been more than 1000 cases of bread being shipped daily at six units in delivery to the bread that mother and daughter had the day.

Since the Ellensberg bakers began their own baking a month ago, she has been able to buy more flour-needed for her customers with the money saved the day.

Yesterday's installment of Mr. Doherty's story was devoted to an account of the killing of three men in Brookline and the preceding of a search; and to an account of the gentlemen bodyguards, their privilege, their manners, of carrying machine guns in over-night bags, and their routine.

Mr. Doherty also described the fashionable fight crowd at the Strickling-Sherley mill in Miami, and the sensations experienced when Capone walked to his seat, preceded by his gang.

Call out of the names of the shrewdly killed in the last 10 years. They were all tough guys. They were all very tough. They were all tougher than Boatface Al or Johnny Torrio—the latter, incidentally, one of the few tough guys who never had a nickname in the gang.

They were tough. They did incredible things to prove it. But the Boats face had subtlety and guile. The Gangs got mighty into action. Capone perpetrated his putzmas and set them charac-

No, neither Torrio nor Capone know much about booze or beer. They were concerned mostly with the businesslike operation and protection of gambling dens, hop joints and other sin dens. But when the call to arms came they were ready—like all the rest of Chicago's criminals.

Chicago must have booze. Chicago was rich. Chicago would squander its money for booze, good booze, bad booze, new booze. Chicago would pay any price for any kind of booze. Throw away your torches. Throw away your buster's tools. Put yourself to a safe place and kill the urge of booze-thirst. Jails the booze armed and night's world turned upside down.

The variance of the understanding is a language all his own. Here are a few more clues by which you may divine at the meaning of the grafted speech —almost a code—or the hoodwink substituted in Chicago gangland.

Koane was dead before he was thrown out of the car. His body was found near Bear cemetery. Edna though wounded half a dozen times survived for miles. Just before dawn she got to the Palos Park Golf club where he collapsed.

The police arrested Frank McElrath and held him in a hotel for a few days. Then they let him go. The grand jury indicted Joe Bellile, Johnny Koane, Ralph Shadron, Willie Niemott, and Willie Channing, besides McElrath. But nothing ever came of the indictments.

Koane and Eggle were not the first to be taken for a ride, nor the last. Nor did their experience enrich their baggage. It was Dean O'Bryan who came up with the phrase which summarizes

The same night O'Hanlon found Duffy in the Four Deuces joint. Duffy had done nothing but yell about how tough he was. He hadn't been near the Millers.

"Come on, Duffy," O'Hanlon said to him this night. "Let's take a ride."

The next morning (this was in February, 1924) the police found the body of Duffy the Dead on a snow bank way out in the prairie. He hadn't been known alive. He was / quite dead.

Chas. Dow and Buddy Rogers are clinging so tenaciously to their places in each of the contests that the picture of the last race has not been round further. (See our box, "Buddy is third" of Chas. # CAPONE PUBLIC ENEMY NO. 1

How Much Longer Can He Get Away With It?

Mr. Doherty's story of Saturday was devoted to the killing and robbery since the greatest gang display of semi-publicity since Jim Colgan's was given of honor. When O'Banion had been buried—and covered with thousands of flowers—Louis Alterie, one of O'Banion's bodyguards, wanted to shoot it out with the murderers at State Madison, etc. Mr. Doherty wondered if Louis were now living further on his ranch.

By EDWARD DOHERTY

The trouble about horse killing is occasioned by the remembrance that was the neatest approach to a gentleman in the mob officer to the capo, had been decorated several times, and was popular in many sets. It was he who taught O'Banion to sip whisky, it was who got the gang to go horseback riding in Lincoln Park once or twice a week, in the manner of the gentle- men of Katten Row. Nails was alone when he was killed. His horse bolted and threw him, dragged him a little way, and then stopped.

He was then thrown to the ground, and thrown to the mouth of a gun, and to the coat pocket that the acquit- tals had cost each of them exactly $7,000. They drank freely, though O'Banion suddenly the sets came out, and the boys began shooting at each other, playfully, as born will. Moe Volo, the manager of the place, and a guy as tough as the next, rushed up to Dion and asked him, for somebody's sake, please to make the boys quit shooting. Dion did; but then a cop came in and got anybody—so all the boys struck their rods against various portions of the cop's uniform, and心得 him out of the joint.

O'BANION SLAYS DYING

The cop retreated, for strategic reasons, and the gangsters followed him. Outside the place they again opened fire with their guns, stabbing the black neighborhood from its slumbers, shooting at each other, and shooting at the rear of O'Banion's followers—Billie Mc-

Guinn, and to boast that the acquittal had cost each of them exactly $7,000.

CHURCH CONFIRMS SON DESPITE BANK UPON AL CAPONE

The boy made a tear into cure and use them. He got some auto. He had everything but more ideas. Every so often he made a tear into the "bad lands" looking for Capone and Torrio and trouble.

But he could find no Capone. He had seen none since the night of the walk, when Torrio had walked in and upon little Benny Capone, 18, as far as quickly with his bodyguard. The church is concerned. Amid lavish festivities, Benny Capone was confirmed by Rev. Father Mauri, P.M., Feb. 11.—The son of his father are not going to be visited in Chicago church here. The church has been decorated with floral offerings of Chicago business. Thousands of dollars have been raised in the name of the Chicago church.

Relatively Orthodox Catholics, it is said, "Poor Dion," and had gone out with his bodyguard. Amid lavish festivities, Benny Capone was confirmed by Rev. Father

HALF-WORLD JARGON

If Jimmie's Coca Parade is the last word in Highway Patrol, then Gives Himself A Way is the last word in Highway Patrol. Jimmie's car stopped. The first thing he did was to get himself out of it. Then he had some more time that he didn't know what to do with. So he got into his car again. He had given his car to a woman who had given him a car in the garage. He will never get back to his old car again. That's all the story. The story is that Jimmie's car was stolen. Jimmie's car was taken by a man named Tom, and Tom is now back to New York.

This block contains a high-contrast, black-and-white image. It depicts a curved, metallic object, likely a sword's hilt or a handle, positioned horizontally across the frame. The object has a dark, textured surface and a lighter, curved profile. It rests on a dark, granular or textured surface. The entire image is enclosed within a thick, solid black rectangular border.

This image is a high-contrast, black-and-white scan of a textured surface. The texture is grainy and appears to be composed of small, irregular shapes, possibly representing a microscopic view of a material like sand or a heavily processed photograph of a natural scene. There is no discernible text or other graphical elements.

CAPONE - PUBLIC ENEMY NO. 1

How Much Longer Can He Get Away With It?

Frank Weis, Mr. Doherty explained yesterday, was alone who think a long while, bite off the wrong idea, very few people will need. Hence his machine gun of a lot of business in Cicero, stupid if courageous, bent to kill or frighten Capone.

Shortly after the Cicero raid Weis and some others Johnny Torrio and his wife, chased them far miles, Homicide shot Torrio. Torrio almost died of fright.

By EDWARD DOHERTY

They tell you that Torrio, though his eyes were bloodshot from terror—and from trying to look on all sides of him at once—was true to the gangsters' code of silence.

He knew who shot him, but he wouldn't tell.

Being true to the gangsters' code is to choose amnesia. I don't get on half—and that was the end of what Capone, a quack, the investigation into the matter of who plugged Torrio and why.

Torrio had his hospital room set up—his apartment, has been able to through questions because of the of 14,000,000 hard.

Torrio, they have thought, he was very big and dangerous and all that but,

the investigation into the matter of

who plugged Torrio and why.

Torrio had his hospital room set up—by his own men and by a couple of government men. To protect him, so further he had covered a place that is, he had pleaded guilty to operating the Sieben brewery, and he took side, probably in the Lake County and many of dear Uncle Samuel. It is like unto a child's trust in the beingness of an aged relative.

Nothing Like Jail Term

Some old ladies have been given long sentences in various penitentiaries for making and selling a few pints of liquor. Men have been shot and killed by government agents because they tried to run away with a quart or two of dollars' worth of rot-gut and sold it—and when he wanted a nice safe place to go to he called on his Uncle

Bugs and was punished with nine months in a nice quiet jail—with southern exposure.

Kondile O'Donnell and his mob of west side busters got into a jam with the government people—quite involuntarily. It must be explained—and also learned that the quality of government money is twice blessed.

The home is twice as homey.

comes the story from a government
